InfoGuard, the Swiss cyber security expert, opens a branch office in Vienna

InfoGuard has seen a major increase in the demand for cyber defence services and support for cyber incidents coming from Austria. Over the past few years, InfoGuard has gained numerous customers in Austria, and this prompted the Swiss cyber security expert to open a branch office in Vienna in early December.

For several years now, InfoGuard, the leading Swiss cyber security expert, has seen a strong demand for incident response and SOC services coming from Austria. There are already many Austrian customers, from medium-sized businesses to large corporations that are being serviced out of InfoGuard's Cyber Defence Center in Switzerland. Now, InfoGuard has opened a new branch office in a central location in Vienna's city centre, giving it the ability to meet the increasing demand and to serve customers even better and more effectively. Business activities in Austria will focus on managed cyber defence and incident response services, which are both in high demand.

Mathias Fuchs is convinced: "There is great development potential in Austria for InfoGuard. The opening of the new branch office, combined with the steadily growing demand, is both a logical step and a clear signal to the Austrian market." The Austrian national is one of the Managing Directors of the new branch, and he has been the Vice President of Investigation & Intelligence at InfoGuard for a number of years. Mathias Fuchs is not only a highly prominent expert and SANS instructor in professional circles, with years of experience in the field of cyber security and cyber defence, but he also has a deep knowledge of the Austrian market and customers' needs.

"We are delighted to have achieved this milestone. Our branch office in Vienna is another step in our expansion strategy in managed cyber defence and incident response services," says Thomas Meier, the CEO of InfoGuard AG.
